

Dr. Annye Rothenberg

Child/Parent Psychologist and
Parenting Skills/Child Rearing/Child Development Specialist

- Ph.D. from Cornell University in Child Development and Clinical Child Psychology. (Clinical child psychology internship at the University of Washington.)
- Licensed as a psychologist in California for more than 25 years.
- Provides unique child rearing counseling sessions to help families with children from babies through age 10 deal with family issues at an early stage. In private practice since December 1995, emphasizing short-term, results-oriented guidance for parents and children.
- Author of the recently published first three books in a five-book series, Mommy and Daddy Are Always Supposed to Say Yes . . . Aren't They?, Why Do I Have To? and I Like To Eat Treats (www.PerfectingParentingPress.com), all are two-section books which include a story for preschoolers and a parents' manual.
- Speaker to groups of parents on specific topics such as what's a solid child-rearing philosophy, dealing with mother/father differences, limit setting, making the most of preschool, getting along with other children, eating, toilet training, sleeping issues, and other concerns.
- Currently Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at Stanford University School of Medicine providing training to the pediatric residents in parenting and child rearing guidance.
- Developed and continues to teach training programs in child rearing guidance to pediatricians and teachers.
- Founder and former director of one of the largest and most respected Bay Area parenting programs (The Child Rearing Program at the CHC in Palo Alto). Selected as a national model program. Received 21 grants from 11 different foundations for the development of various components of this parenting program.
- Author of three textbooks for family guidance professionals including the award-winning Parentmaking: A Practical Handbook for Teaching Parent Classes. (www.bansterpress.com)
- Mother of one son—now in his mid-thirties.

LICENSED PSYCHOLOGIST
SPECIALIZING IN CHILD REARING GUIDANCE FOR FAMILIES WITH CHILDREN
FROM BIRTH THROUGH TEN YEARS OLD

Telephone: (650) 364-4466 or (650) 562-1741 • Fax: (650) 364-2299
3943 Jefferson Avenue • Redwood City, California 94062